- I've been hired to create a website to showcase information about Big Sal's sandwich shop. The sandwich shop has recently become popular and has formed a growing audience. As people keep hearing about the business, there's only information going around by word of mouth and there's almost no online presence of the shop besides the location. This is causing potential customers to not want to try Big Sal's business because they don't even know the shop's hours of operations. However, Big Sal is not a tech savvy guy at all. So, Big Sal hired me to create a website for him that shows all the information he wants current and future customers to know.
